GENERAL ORDER-No. 1. OF THE OHIO, CAMP SHILOH, April 11, 1863.

The battle of Shiloh has made famous foreve the army of the Ohio and its commander. Soldiers of the Fifth Division, the General com manding salutes you with admiration and with his warmest thanks for the part you took in that ity, looking after the wounded and the missing ever to be remembered conflict. The patience with which you endured uncommon exposure and the valor you displayed on the field merit and will surely receive the approbation of your coun-

Remember, soldiers, that you have a reputation now, and that discipline cannot be relaxed, even after the battle has been won, without tarnishing your fame.

Cherish your fame, study how you can best discharge every duty as soldiers, and peace will follow quickly.

REBEL NEWS -The Confederate Senate has passed a bill raising the postage on single letters to ten cents, and the House a bill prohibiting the sale of cotton, sugar, and tobacco to the enemy.

The Richmond Dispatch says that McClellan i waiting for iron-clad gunboats to take Richmond by way of James river, and cries out that obstructions be sunk as the only means of preven tion. A despatch from Richmond says the report by a forage train is, that Stonewall Jackson fell back before everwhelming forces, and was in full retreat toward Staunton. Forty rebels were taken prisoners. It is supposed Jackson wouldn't make a stand before Waynesboro.

The Savannah News says there was a skirmish at White Marsh Island, between companies of the 13th Georgia regiment and a Michigan regiment, in which the latter were repulsed with a loss of twenty men. The rebel loss was five killed and wounded. Twenty rebel soldiers were killed and six wounded at Green, Tennessee, by a railroad accident. The Richmond papers pro nounce the Yankee accounts of the battle of Shiloh a tissue of the grossest falsehoods. They deny that Beauregard's arm was shot off.

A CORPS OF ARMY SURGEONS. - Experince has proved that the two Surgeons allowed to each regiment are insufficient to give that care and attention to the wounded that is necessary after a great battle has been fought. The Indiana State Sentinel says that, with a view to remedy this defect so far as Indiana troops are concerned, Gov. Morton has commenced making appointments for a corps of army Surgeons, who will immediately proceed to the field of Shiloh and report for active duty. Two additional assistant Surgeons will be appointed for each regiment, and as Indiana has now twenty-four regiments in that vicinity the number of Surgeons to be appointed will be fortyeight. It is thought that four Surgeons to a regiment will be ample to dress the wounds on the field should another fight occur, and also care for those of our sick and wounded in the regimental and post hospitals. This action on the part of of Gov. Morton will meet with the hearty approval of the humane everywhere.

Brigadier-General W. H. L. Wallace, who fell in the battle of Pittsburg Landing, served in the Mexican war as Adjutant of Hardin's regiment, and was near to that lamented officer when he fell at Buena Visto. When the rebellion broke out, Gen. Wallace was among the first to enlist, and was elected Colonel of the 11th Illinois regiment. During the summer he was Acting Brigadier-General, and commanding the post at Bird's Point most of the time. At the battle at Fort Donelson he was Acting Brigadier, and in command of a brigade, and was in the hottest of the battle. He was promoted to a Brigadier-Generalship for his gallantry in that battle Gen. Wallace, on his return from Mexico, married the daughter of Col. T. L. Dickey, who commands the 4 h Illinois cavalry, which was at tached to Gen. Wallace's Division. He had three brothers in the service.

THE BATTLE OF SHILOH. GEN. BOYLE'S REPORT. HEADQUARTERS OF THE ELEVENTH BRIGADE, FIGH DIVISION, ARMY OF THE OHIO,
BATTLE-FIELD OF SETLOS, Tenn.,
In Camp, April 10th, 1862.

Brigadier General T. L. Crittenden, commanding Fifth
Division of the Army of the Ohio:

GENERAL: At a late hour on the night of the th inst., I disembarked the four regiments of my mmand from the fleet of boats at Pittaburg command from the fleet of boas at Pittsburg, anding, on the Tennessee River, and by your rder marched beyond the crest of the hill, forming into line of battle in the rear of the forces of frigadier General Nelson, the whole force resting on their arms during the night, in a drenching sin. At a few minutes after 5 o'clock A. M. of the 7th inst., by your order, I moved my brigade, whim position in the centre, the movement of sking position in the centre, the movement of the whole force in your command being directed by you in person, forming on the right of Gen. Nelson, who occupied the extreme left. General Meson, who occupied the extreme left. General Meson's Division soon came up and occupied our right in the line of attack. The forces of the Fifth Division formed into line of battle in front of the enemy under your immediate orders, along the centre, the Fourteenth brigade thrown slightly in advance on the left side of the centre. The Mineteenth Ohio, Colonal Beatty, formed the right of my brigade the Thirteenth formed the right of my brigade, the Thirteen Kentucky, Colonel Hobson, the centre, and t Ninth Kentucky, Colonel Grider, on the is with the Fifty-ninth Ohio, Colonel Fyffe, in t with the Fifty-finin Onio, Colonel Fyire, in the rear as a supporting reserve. In pursuance of orders we marched steadily forward upon the centre, the Fourteenth brigade being still in advance on my left. I halted my command in sight of the open field in front of the right wing of my brigade, and by order of General Buell, given in person, I then forwarded four flanking companies of the Nieuteenth Opin and Chittaenth Kartager.

person, I then forwarded four flanking companies of the Nineteenth Ohio and I flirteenth Kentucky as skirmishers to advance to the open field or to where the skirmishers could feel and engage the enemy, or await the advance of our line. After capturing a prisoner and sending him in, the skirmishing companies of the Nineteenth Ohio were fired upen and driven back. I ordered up Colonel Beatty, of the Nineteenth Ohio, to take position along the edge of the open field to repel the advance of the enemy in that direction. At this functure the enemy turned their forces in the dijuncture the enemy turned their forces in the direction of the position occupied by you with the Fourteenth brigade, evidently with the view of driving back our forces and capturing our guns. The Fourteenth brigade, encouraged and led on by you in person at their head, made an impetuous attack upon the enemy, driving them hem back into a position from under the fire of them back into a position from under the fire of the enemy's batteries. The regiment fell back in good order with the exception of a few men, and retained the position until the guns of the enemy were silected by the well-directed fire of Captain Bartley's battery. Major Edwards (acting Lieut. Colonel) was shot dead from his horse, and a number of the privates killed and wounded. I ordered Colonel-Beatty from the position which he had taken up to the left and in advance of the position before occupied by him, into and under cover of before occupied by him, into and under cover of the underbrush, to the left of the old field, within supporting distance of Capt. Bayllav's hattander and enemy seemed to be deficiently his forces, and ride energy seemed to be deflecting file forces, and making his attack on the left of the centre, in the direction of Capt. Mendenhall's battery, which had shelled them with fearful destruction, when Gen. Buell in person ordered the Ninth Kentucky, Col. Grider, and Fifty-ninth Ohio, Col. Fyffe, to advance rapidly and engage and drive back the enemy. Col. Grider led his men gallantly in the attack, well supported by most of his officers and men. The youthful Lieut. Underwood of that regiment behaved with the gallantry of a veteran soldier, gaing in advance of his men, and was toldier, going in advance of his men, and was that through the sword arm and lost his sword. In this attack, Col. Grider had three of his com-missioned officers killed and ten wounded. The Fifty-ninth Onlo, Col. Fyffe, gallantly and brave-ly supported Col. Grider in this attack, and sus-tained a loss of six killed and twenty one woundtained a loss of six killed and twenty one wounded. I refer to the report of the commanders of these regiments for the details of their operations. During the engagement on the left of your centre, you ordered me to withdraw Col. Beatty from its position, and advance it to the extreme left to report to and support Gen. Nelson. I ordered him up immediately, when you sent him forward to report to Gen. Nelson, where he remained until the battle was over. I am gratified to state that General Nelson complimented him to me for his gallant hearing, and that of his men while under his command. Pending the en-state that General Nelson complimented him to me for his gallant bearing, and that of his men while under his command. Pending the engagement on the left of your centre, I was commanded by Gen. Buell to order up Lieut. Col. Maxwell with his regiment re-formed and a portion of Wisconsin troops, formed by my order under a captain, and placed under command of Lieut. Col. Maxwell, to advance and support Capt. Bartlet's battery. The enemy being driven back by the gallant soldiers of our army at every point, the firing scon ceased along the whole line from right to left, making it evident the battle was over, and a great victory won by the army of the Ohio. It is proper to mention the gallant conduct of Capt. Boyle, my Assistant Adjutant General and Acting Aide de-Camp in the field, and my Aides de-Camp Lieuts. Leggett and Hughes, all of whom displayed coolness and courage, and rendered efficient service. Lieut. J. T. Farris, of the Fifth Kentucky cavalry, who had been serving as brigade quartermaster, and waiting orders since the battle of Shiloh, appointed quartermaster of this brigade, by my permission also acted as aid, dp prting himself with fearless courage and coolness. Capt. Lyne Starling of your staff, besides bearing your orders in the midst of the bottest of the battle rendered mediciant service for which my Aides de-camp Lieuts. Most of the friends of Mr. Bingham's confication bill feel sangulne that the House will pass it under the previous question to-morrow. It is believed that the vote will be rather a close one. Several vessels of the river flotilla have been up the Rappahanneck, some of them as far as Fredericksburg, about nine miles above Tappahanneck. Schooners had been sunk to obstruct the river, but Commander Wyman in the Yankee and her consort pushed their way through at one point. The boats were fired upon by muskets. No one on toard was injured. Twelve or thirteen vessels, two of them schooners, found in the creeks, were selzed and brought down stream. The river is now considered open for navigation, and timber for rebuilding the bridges burned by the rebels will soon reach Falmouth Nothing is heard of the robel army, but it is believed to be in force not far back of Fredericksburg.

THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1862.

The New York Leader, discussing the projected reconstruction of the Democratic party, says:

party, says:

Our duty as a Democratic journalist requires us to speak plainly. We do not intend that any past associations shall interfere in the slightest degree with the full performance of our obligations as one of the people of this great country—a country yet, thanks be to God! existing in its unity and power from the Lakes to the Gulf, and to either Ocean. It has been, therefore, with no slight interest that we have noticed movements in the Democratic party looking to its reconstruction as it existed previous to the Charleston Convention. Nothing could be more absurd.

While we believe that the Democratic organization of the North will be the nucleus of the National party of the country, it is not possible nor politic that old party lives should be drawn. There are men in the Republican Party who are national not sectional, and men identified with no party, who must be enlisted in the cause of the Union against the Northern revolutionists and disunionists.

The same Democratic journal, copying sub. sequently a portion of what we have ventured follows:

The great object which is upparmost in the mind of every conservative man, next to the suppression of the rebellion, is to crush out Northern radicalism. To accomplish this necessary condition to the restoration of the Union, party organization is essential, and, while we can see no reason for abandoning the Democratic organization as it exists, we are ready to adopt any plan that shall promise to unite the greatest number of homogeneous elements. We hold party allegiance entirely subordinate to the interests of the Republic, and now that the army is declared to be large enough to complete its mission, and the he large enough to complete its mission, and the suppression of armed rebellion is only a question of time, the next duty of loyal Northern men is to put down at the billot box the revolutionary, disunion politicians at home. This is the right spirit, and we believe it is the spirit which pervades the Democratic ranks.

The general manifestation of this liberal spirit is the first step toward the accomplishment of the end in view, and will make feasible if not easy all the other necessary steps.

The next step, in our opinion, is, as we have said before, the organization of a great constitutional party, on the basis of what is common alike to Democrats, National Republicans, and Conservatives who are neither, thereby embodying the whole conservative force of the North, and not merely putting the defeat of radicalism beyond the reach of doubt, but turning the defeat into appihilation, crushing out radicalism, grinding it to powder, and sweeping it away.

This end clearly must be accompliahed in some way, if the Union is to be re-established, and we perceive no other way so effectual as in the Republican system of government. All the one we have suggested; we, indeed, par- have adopted as States the principle of the ceive no other peaceable way that promises to sovereignty of the people. All have written be fectual at all. We again commend the constitutions guaranteeing private rights and suggestion to the earnest consideration of the Northern conservatives. We respectfully urge it npon their consideration. Northern radicalism must be put down. The task is combined inseparably with the great work of reestablishing the government.

The 23d of last September was the "last day of grace" accorded by the rebel leaders of the Confederate States to the Union men resit dent within their limits. After that day they Davis's proclamation of August 14th, which declared that all persons adhering to the Government of the United States, and acknowledging the authority of the same, and not being eitizens of the Confederate States, should leave in forty days. At the expiration of that period, District Attorneys, Marshals, and other officers, were charged to make complaint against any aliens coming into the States, and the courts were directed to order the removal of all such aliens beyond the territory of the Confederate States, and in case of non-com pliance they were to be held "in strict custody until the final order of the court, taking special care that such aliens obtain no information that could possibly be made useful to the In the face of this cruel and tyrannical edict how can sympathizers with rebellion have the audacity to complain when the Federal government has made arrests to prevent the aiders and abettors of treason from overturning its authority and rending the Union into fragments? If the United States has committed any fault in ly solved by the Federal Constitution, if we this respect it is its leniency to those who have supplied the rebels with munitions of war and even served in the Confederate armies. We may see almost daily men walking in our streets whose complicity with the rebellion is notorious, and if it were not so, their own boastful asseverations would prove it. We southern part of the State and the abstraction of their funds, we are lenient enough to presume, for the use of the rebellion, though it may have been a flagrant case of robbery for their private emolument. The whole city is cognizant of the fact that men, who have held commissions and borne arms in the rebel cause, have returned among us with impunity and are following their avocations as if they known to our laws, and the only one whose definition is fixed by our constitution, which Union have, Judas-like, betrayed it with and hanging themselves, are flaunting their ill-gotten price of blood and carnage, and boasting their gains at street corners and in private. There are those among us also who own and control public avenues of information, which have for the last year been made largely subsidiary to the rebel cause, and been the means of imparting "information useful The Union still rests upon the same impregto the enemy," and now they are allowed the nable natural basis. No doubt the war has in peaceful possession of their property, and are part destroyed the sense and perception of the making their profits from our loyal armies and our loyal citizens. All these classes which we springs and the foundation-stones of the rebellion, for they furnished it with the sinews of war or their own sinews and strength. We have no feelings of mercy for sections; but the facts still remain unchanged, such as these; they went into the game of and most of them will remain as long as natreason, knowing how high the stake was they ture and its laws hold on their steady and perrisked, and coolly calculating the chances of petual course. success. The dark gamesters have failed, although they did not "walk blindfold on." And now they impudently prate of arrests and viving the distinct sense and perception of the conceive it to be harshness if they are compelled to take an oath of allegiance or give To this work every true American will apply

COMMON INTERESTS .- The natural basis of our American Union, as all judicious and candid men believe, is formed by COMMON IN-TERESTS, MUTUAL DEPENDENCE, and RECIP-ROCAL AFFECTION. The legal basis of Union is the Constitution. But it could not maintain a perpetual sway over this vast theatre of States and peoples, by its mere inherent force and obligation as the supreme law. It derives its vital energy chiefly from its connection with the natural basis. It moulds these separate native forces and materials into an or-The Buffalo Courier, republishing this ex- ganized and individual form, and thus clothes he government with political personality and

The social problem to be worked out, therefore, is not the production of perfect identity of interests, but the belancing, harmonizing, and applying to the general good, of many diverse and even rival interests. This problem would be successful-could only make up our minds to adhere to it. Community of interests may continue, notwithstanding the existence of different systerns of labor. In the Southern States the employers and employed are often of different races, and the emp,'oyer to a great extent is the legal proprietor of the labor which he emcan lay our hands upon those who were en- ploys. Capital and the labor of others are gaged in the confiscation of the banks in the largely in the same hands in the character of property. The result might have been foreseen The nilitary officers, entrusted with the great guardianship of the Union cause, must not, will not, cannot permit it to be assailed by inlirection. They can no more allow it to be injured indirectly than directly. The one crime would be as great as the other. Accordingly we are not at all surprised to learn that the Provost Marshal of Louisville has re ceived an order from headquarters at Pitts burg Landing that hereafter no rebel dead bodies shall, so far as his jurisdiction extends, be landed upon the soil of Kentucky. We resume that the measure, though to some it may seem rather harsh, is right. It matters little where the dust of the dead reposes, but it is of the most tremendous moment that all devices for the advancement of the rebellion should be promptly and efficiently resisted The times are too terrible to admit of the cultivation of rebel sentiment.

We have from a Gallatin (Tenn.) ladv a long letter, which, after abusing us as round ly as only a woman can, closes thus:

But, enough; my heart sickens in contempla-tion of such a demon as you. One consolation, however, abides with the certain reward which awaits you. "The lake that burns with fire" shall ot always yearn for its promised elements; as emorse, will issue from the lost spirit of Geo. D. rentiça. MINNIE MINDEN.

"Minnie Minden" is a pretty name. There simply for the purpose of our own safety and favor of a personal interview, we shall be hapwelfare. HOUSE OF REFUGE AND SOUTHERN PARK .-Under this head notice is given in another column of an elec ion to be held on the first Saturday in May next, for fifteen managers, to serve two years-eight to be chosen by the General Council and seven by contributors of five dollars per annum each, said contributors thereby becoming eligible as manager and voter, if a resident of the city of Louisville or of Jefferson county, and he and family to be entitled to free admission into the rules and regulations of the board of man-ry, having been managed with ability and econnear sixty acres, last year was deeply ploughed and harrowed, sown in blue gras; and now contain over four thousand young th rifty trees and greens, with a border on the eastern line of forest trees more than half a century old. The western line is daily traversed by the cars of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in view for a mile or more.

The drives and walks within the Park are being graded, as well as the broad avenue in front, which is the terminus of First, Second, and Third streets extended. Third street, one hundred feet in width, is extended, leading up directly to the House of Refuge, and is nearly completed, and when it is opened, a delightful drive will be had, upon which avenues it is contemplated to run an omnibus line within a few days. with a hope that at some future day, after a settlement of our political troubles, a horse railway. water and gas pipes will be extended out to the house and park.

The outlay, all told, up to this time, upon the buildings, Park, and avenues, will not exceed $40,000; and the managers cordially invite all who feel an interest in this necessary and benevolant institution, and the free cm of the park, that their names for the sum of $5 be subscribed in books left at the Journal office; also at the offices of the Gas Co. and Water Co., where a beautiful lithographed design cf the Park and House of Refuge may be seen.

The Park, when the design is fully carried out, will equal anything of its kind in the Western country. The walks, drives, and lakes are laid out with rare taste, and, as a combination, cannot fail to make it a place of surpassing beauty and loveliness. It must soon become a great resort for our citizens. It requires no prophet to ands between the city and the Fark will be orgeneral suspension of business, it is refreshing seph H. THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF LOUISVILLE-TO CHRISTIANS OF EVERY NAME THROUGHOUT OUR COUNTRY. DEAR BRETHREN: With the approval and cooperation of the proper military authorities, we have undertaken to supply the soldiers in the military hospitals and convalescent barracks in operation of the proper military authorities, we have undertaken to supply the soldiers in the military hospitals and convalescent barracks in this city with religious reading. There are now here a very large number of sick, wounded, and convalescent men; and as the summer advances the number will probably increase rather than diminish. These men are from home and among strangers. They are almost without society, and are always surrounded by disease and suffering. If the mind, in such circumstances, be left unoccupied, it preys upon itself, the spirits flag, and a very great hinderance is placed in the way of recovery. Members of the medical staff have expressed the opinion that a tract or of recovery. Members of the medical staff have expressed the opinion that a tract or small volume of high moral tone, placed every day in the hands of those able to read, would, simply as a remedial agent, be of incalculable value. But many of these men are members of Christian Churches. They long for the religious literature which once furthered their growth in trace and prompted them to fidelity, and the lose literature which once furthered their growth in grace, and prompted them to fidelity, and the loss of which may have been the occasion of many an apostacy. Others, again, in large numbers, are peculiarly susceptible to religious impressions. The immoralities of the camp, the perils of the battle-field, the scenes of sickness, mutilation and death in the hospital, make deep impressions. Many a poor penitent may here be recaimed or find hope in our Saviour.

While thousands of dollars' worth of hospital supplies are forwarded from all quarters, shall

Your sons, brothers, and friends are sick, wounded, and dying among us. We would lighten the wearisome days that pass over them. We would instruct and if possible save them. To this

From here we were sent to Charleston, South Carolina. On the way for three days we were kept confined in crowded cars, with sick and wounded, in which we were required to remain without rest and with but little food. Paraded through numerous little towns on our passage, in ulted by men and women—the latter much the worst—surrounded by crowds hooting and taunting us, but unheeding we proudly passed on, regardless of the fanatic exhibitions, and felt that we were suffering in the giorious cause of the Union and liberty. Arrived in Charleston we were placed in the common jail, without the slightest necessary comfort; thence taken to Castle Pinckney we were again returned to jail, where Col. Corcaran, Col. Wilcox, myself, Laeut. Colonel Neff, and Major Potter were on the 19th of November placed in condemned cells as common felons, to await execution. It is impossible to describe the feelings in this episode of our career. Locked within separate cells, the gallows ever visible before us, the papers desiring to have us hung every morning hefore hreaffast, and the thousand little Of Bibles there is enough. The American Bitle Society places a Testament in the hands of every foldier who will accept one. Receiving the sword Col. Woodruff said he appeared at the solicitation of his fellow-citizens, to give them some little of his experience as a pri-soner of war. He hoped that he would be excused from any rhetorical display, as the confine-ment of the mind had been as onerous as the body, and the sweet air of freedom had not yet quite unfettered it. He thanked his numerous friends who had so heartily greeted him upon his return, and felt assured by the reception he had met that he had not forfeited their confio those who were with him, for, surrounded by riends, he felt it only sufficient to state the fact hat he was captured when in the line of duty. but that it should now go to the world that if there was any blame to be attached to any one it might be properly bestowed.

He alluded to the short campaign he conducted in Western Virginia, and asserted that if his plans had been adopted the whole of Gen. Wise's force on the Kanawha would have been captured or annihitated, and the truth of which the General

Still the Gene-al's information came up to clinch the argument, that they must be our men, and they rous up to them. A conversation here ensued in reference to the bursing of buildings, troops, &c., and for ten minutes it lasted without the rebels discovering who we were, nor would they, had it not been for who we were, nor would they, had it not been for act in that our surgeon could not follow us, which hat they must be our men, and they rode up to nominated the following candidates for the offices known, we were ordered to surrender, and the open muzzles of 200 muskels covering us within a range of ten feet were a persuasion that was ir-resistible. The following has been received at the War Department: Newmarket, Va, April 22.—To Hon. E. M. Stanton: Our advance is near Harrisonburg. We have troops across the mountains protecting the bridges on the Shenandoah, at Almy, and on the Luray road. Tc-day we pushed a force forward to Luray. The people were greatly alarmed at first, on account of the reports circulated by the rebels as to the treatment they would receive the rebels as to the treatment they would receive from us, but in the course of a few hours they became quite recordled to our presence. There is a good road to Warrenton, 25 miles, and a turppike to Culpepper Court-House, the same distance. In several sharp skirmishes with the enemy we lost three men. Jackson has abandaned the valley of Virginia permanently, and is en route for Gordonsville by the way of the mountains. Every day brings its prisoners and numerous deserters from the rebels.

The till recognizing the independence of Hayti and Liberia and the appointment of a diplomatic representation was taken up.

Mr. Sumner said thus far our Government, usually friendly to new governments, had turned aside from these nations. He thought that it was time to put an end to this anomaly in history.

Mr. Sumner continued his speech in favor of the recognition of Hayti and Liberia, and concluded by avenue; By recognizing these two nations. ded by saying: By recognizing these two nations we only tardily follow the example of the principal nations of the world.

The bill was then postponed until to-morrow, and the conficcation bill was then taken up.

Mr. Davis resumed his remarks in opposition to the bill. He said that he had already detained the Senate at some length on this question, but he considered that in the importance of its effect the bill had no parallel. He contended that Corgress had no right to pass such a bill under the war power.

Mr. Sherman offered an amendment specifying persons to whom confiscation should apply, in-cluding those who may hereafter hold office under

The House resumed the consideration of the confiscation bill, which was pending when the adjournment took place, and upon which the main question had been ordered. The bill was tabled y a vote of 54 against 48. The next bill taken up was a bill to facilitate he suppression of the rebellion and prevent the recurrence of the same. Mr. Thomas, or Massachusetts, remarked that the Committee recommended that none of the confiscation bills should pass.

Mr. Olio said that the disposition of the House and of the country was that there should be some legislation on the subject. As the Judiciary Committee could not agree on the matter, he proposed that a select committee of seven he appointed to hat a select committee of seven be appoi that a select committee of seven be appointed to take the subject into consideration. Such a committee being untrammelled, the House might anticipate a proper messure of legislation.

Mr. Dunn was glad to hear Mr. Olin's suggestion. The subject of confiscating rebel property was one of the most difficult questions before Congress, in the decision of which was involved the restoration of the government to its former state of prosperity. He congratulated the House and country that this morning there had been laid upon the table a bill which, if it had been passed, would have disgraced the civilization of this age. [Exclamations on the Democratic side of "Good! good! That's set!"] It was a bill which at one fell sweep would have impoverished the people generally from old age down to int Mr. Colfax advocated the appointment of a seect committee.

Mr. Dunn was opposed to a sweeping confiscaion bill. He wanted a distinction made against the leaders.

Mr. Bingham maintained the propriety of a bill to runish all rebels by depriving them of their property.

Mr. Lehman was opposed to confiscation bills.
